Mr. Gordon objected to the appointment of further salaried ad interim committees, and especially to a committee on retrenchment, when the House itself in consideration of the appropriation bill had again and again refused to climinate or reduce items that could have been cut down without that could have been cut down without any injury to the welfare of the State. If he General Assembly, for all its boasting about economy, refused to re-trench, ret, in fact, added large sums to an already overloaded appropriation bill, it was uscless to expect that any such small commission would affect any material retrenchment. The reso-lution was rejected, 43 to 37.

Election of School Superintendents. Messrs, Love and Oliver called up resolution submitting to the next Gen Assembly an amendment State Constitution, providing for the election of Division School Superintendents "in the manner provided by law," n lieu of the present provision of the Constitution, which provides that dividen school superintendents must be hosen by the State Board of Educa-ion. Mr. Love explained that the idmentment did not state in so many words that it provided for the election superintendents by popular vote-leaves it for the General Assembly to say by statute how they shall be elected, and provision may be made for popular elections in the counties and or elections by the school boards in ties, or for some other arrangement satisfactory to the locality. At any rate, it would not an end to the present method of having a school superntendent forced on an unwilling neighborhood by a board not familiar intendent forced ith local conditions, and composed ! part, at least, of political officeholders. The resolution was adopted, 62 to 21. is a measure for which Mr. Love s stood for a number of years, and dissatisfaction at many of the elec-tions held last summer by the State Board of Education is said to have lent great strength to the movement.

Night Session

The House last night took up the routine consideration of the calendar, with more than 100 Senate hills reported favorably by House committees remaining to be considered in the three days yet left of this session. The game bill was not reached, no action was laken on the primary bill save to order it printed as passed by the Senate; the fee bill was passed by the Senate; the fee bill was passed to fits third reading, but is far down on the calendar, the co-ordinate college bill was reported favorably yesterday by the House Committee on Schools and Colleges, but does not yet appear on the printed calendar, which shows twenty one pages by bills listed by title yet remaining for consideration. It is becoming more and more evident that there will be at the end a slaughter of Senate bills similar to that of House bills on their second reading, when at the close of business on Tuesday night 225 bills reported favorably by committees went into the discard.

Night Session

At the conclusion of a two-hour ges-sion of the Senate last night, in the course of which a large number of course of which a large number of House bills were advanced and passed. Senator Paxton introduced a resolution limiting the Senate, beginning this morning, to the consideration of such House bills as are objected to by less than six members, and Senate bills returned from the House with amendments. Under the resolution, if six Senators or more objected to any House bill it could be taken up only by a two-thirds vote, which is sufficient to suspend the rules.

Senator Mapp scented danger to several bills which, when they come up, will be certain to arouse differences of opinion, and moved that the Senate of opinion, and moved that the Senate The motion was put and was Senator Mapp immediately took the floor with an extended speech against the resolution.

"It is perfectly apparent what this resolution is for," said Senator Mapp. "The calendar is in better shape now than it has been at this stage of the session in many years, and there is absolutely no necessity for a resolution dissolutely no necessity for a resolution limiting the Senate in any respect in the consideration of the bills now on the calendar. It is intended, I must believe, to obstruct legislation, and is aimed particularly against the anti-shipping bill and the antigambling

Senator Mapp dispatched one of the pages for a glass of water, and after tak-ing a sip resumed his speech. It was clear that he had no intention of yielding the floor to permit a vote on the reso-iution. It was the first frank and open fillibuster of the Senate session. He had spoke for ten minutes when Senator Lesner interrupted.

"Aren't you resorting to dilatory tactics now to defeat the resolution before the House?" asked the Senator from Norfolk.
"I am," replied Senator Mapp, "we have to fight the devil with fire."

"Will the Senator yield for a motion adjourn" asked Senator Holt. "Only for a motion to adjourn," was the reply.

Senator Holt thereupon moved that the Senate adjourn. Several of the Senators declared their willingness to stay until midnight and see the fill-buster through to the end, but the mo-tion to adjourn prevailed and the Senate adjourned at 10:10 o'clock withate adjourned at twin occors with-out taking a vote on the Paxton reso-lution. Senator Mapp said after ad-journment that he was primed for a two-hour speech, with no lack of ma-terial for a longer one.
